Programme Features

BA (Hons) Film and Television is designed to give you all the relevant skills in the production of both film and television artefacts, covering both technical and intellectual aspects of production.

Our resources and facilities allow you to experience most of the production contexts in which graduates can expect to work in. This is a vibrant, practical course that allows individuals to develop their creativity in whichever area they may wish to specialize in. The course team includes practicing professionals as well as visiting practitioners representing a wide range of production areas.

The programme has been developed to help you for the challenges of a career in this constantly changing environment. The course is structured in a way, which provides you with practical experience of a variety of production processes. More than anything, the programme is designed to encourage creative ideas and to help you interpret in practice, as well as sharpen critical and analytical skills.

These skills and interests will be developed through a progressive programme of study which allows flexibility in the student's choice of specialisation. The programme has the following general educational and specific programme aims:

- a. To allow you the opportunity to creatively and imaginatively explore contemporary opportunities in digital film and television production.
- b. To develop your practical and intellectual capabilities in regard to the complete production cycle of media artefacts and to be able to manage that process effectively.
- c. To produce graduates with key technical skills related to the production of a wide variety of digital film and television outputs or artefacts.
- d. To produce graduates who understand the social and cultural contexts in which they work.
- e. To develop a range of transferable skills such as the ability to work independently, the ability to communicate effectively, the ability to manage time and project development processes, the ability to work in ill-defined domains, and the ability to work effectively in teams.
- f. To encourage individual development, creative ability and self-identity.
- g. To develop a range of personal and professional skills that will enable you to gain employment or allow them to enhance employment opportunities.
- h. To develop the academic abilities appropriate to an Honours graduate.

However, while the programme is geared towards providing an environment for innovative practice relevant to the Film & Television industries, we recognise the wider educational value of the course and this is, therefore, an essential part of the overall course philosophy. The ability to organise and prioritise tasks and goals, the development of effective communication skills and the ability to think critically are all crucial. These skills will be developed throughout the course and are relevant to a wide range of vocational possibilities.

The Association of Graduate Recruiters stresses that:

"Employers need graduates who are equipped with a range of core work skills as well as academic ability. It is these competences, such as interpersonal skills, communication, team working and customer awareness which, in the final analysis, make graduates employable".

Implicit within key employability skills is the concept of entrepreneurial behavior. Where an entrepreneur as 'an individual with the imagination, skills and drive to identify and implement an idea - to take a project through from the planning stages to final success'. The BA (Hons)

Film and Television programme encourages a wide range of competences that are seen as entrepreneurial these include knowledge, skills and personal traits:

- Self-management
- The ability to work both as part of a team and independently
- Business and customer awareness
- Problem solving
- Communication (e.g. the ability to sell ideas and persuade others)
- Literacy
- Application of numeracy
- Application of information technology
- The ability to multi-task
- Able to take responsibility and make decisions
- The ability to work under pressure

These skills and traits would also benefit all employees within a business and so are useful for graduates to have. These skills, for example, communication skills and the ability to work as part of a team, are embedded within the degree programme, allowing you to ultimately explore a wide range of potential career opportunities, these include work in television and film production, digital media production, journalism, teaching, advertising, media and PR.

Other skills related to entrepreneurship embedded within the modules teaching and the LTA strategy of the Film and Television programme are:

- Management skills – the ability to manage time and people (both oneself and others) successfully
- The ability to work both as part of a team and independently
- Able to plan, coordinate and organise effectively
- Financial literacy
- Able to research effectively (e.g. available markets, suppliers, customers and the competition)
- Self-motivated and disciplined
- Adaptable
- An Innovative and creative thinker
- Perseverance

Aims of the Programme

The overall aims of the Programme are:

- To develop the skills necessary to identify, generate and successfully access opportunities in the workplace and/or in continuing education.
- Effective performance within team environments; planning, managing and appraising the contribution of self and of others in arenas such as project previews and group critic presentations

- Technical knowledge in a range of relevant technologies and the ability to apply these within the creative design process, self-management, drive, motivation and personal development planning for determining and achieving personal and group outcomes
- Development of a creative, distinctive personal iconography and portfolio
- to show leadership, delegation, a professional level of communication, interpersonal skills, self-awareness, reflective learning, self-assessment and the ability to accept accountability
- Critical thinking, problem solving, decision-making within the context of your chosen subject and self-promotion skills appropriate to employment in industry.
- Research design, analysis, synthesis, ethical judgement and critical appraisal within the context of creative and technological work

Level Descriptors

Level Descriptors describe in general terms the expected outcomes you will achieve at each level of study as you progress through your programmes. They describe the relative demand, complexity, depth of learning and learner autonomy associated with a particular level of learning and achievement. The University's Level Descriptors are aligned to the national Framework for Higher Education Qualifications (FHEQ) and are a key mechanism for ensuring the academic standards of the University's provision.

Teaching, Learning and Assessment Strategies employed to enable the Programme Outcomes to be Achieved and Demonstrated

The University prides itself on teaching excellence which 'brings together theory and practice in a powerful combination to provide exceptional learning that is both inspirational for you and relevant to the workplace'. A variety of teaching and learning methods are employed throughout the programme to ensure you acquire and develop appropriate concepts, knowledge, professional and personal skills. These include traditional methods such as lectures and seminars but we aim to embed experiential learning experiences as a foundation of learning and development. The academic team utilise live projects and case studies where appropriate to demonstrate process, analysis, methodologies, analysis of results and formulation of conclusions and argument.

The University promotes continued professional development among its teaching staff and a strong academic research culture within all its subjects. The MA and undergraduate courses continue to attract highly qualified staff with international and national research profiles which ensures curriculum and subject content reflect current practice within the sector.

BA (Hons) Film and Television uses a range and variety of LTA approaches such as lectures, seminars, workshop, critique reviews, pitching and one to one feedback tutorials to monitor the progress of various projects. Self-directed research. VLE environment participation through forums, specific debate times.

Through these approaches you will be asked to demonstrate ability to critically deconstruct and evaluate published work in the field. This is a key element of the learning and assessment strategy including an awareness of social-political and ethical implications of content. As an undergraduate you are continually involved in assessment of your own work and that of your peers and you are required to develop interpersonal and team working skills within this context. You will also receive formative critical feedback from tutors.

A wide range of authentic assessment types are used in order to develop a full range of work related skills e.g. TV Studio Productions, Short Films, etc. This wide range of methods ensures the practice and assessment of key and graduate skills that build your awareness of the industry and your employability.

The LTA on Film and Television is focused on campus based learning, through the range of approaches detailed above. This experience is enhanced by the use of a number of other complementing approaches, including social medias, VLE, Knowledge Transfer Projects and the use of technology that allows for FDL style learning within the above configuration.

The range of assessment modes used by Film and Television Production include

- critical reflection,
- group work
- individual presentations,
- practical productions,
- essays,
- dissertation,
- research portfolios,
- reflection of creative actions.

The range of assessments is used because this enables different aspects of your learning to be tested.

As well as being summative (i.e. testing what you know/can do at the end of a module) most modules will also include guidance and verbal feedback given to you in order to help you achieve the best result possible.

Advice and guidance is given while the module is still in progress (Formative Feedback). Within the programme as a whole you will be supported in engaging with assessment tasks which are appropriate to a particular level of achievement and which move you towards becoming an independent learner.

Specific examples of this:

- Module Work Book, bespoke ebooks, containing information, formative tasks, self-grading exercises, embedded video clips, etc. to assist in specific modules ILO's but also to enhance a culture of independent learning

- Production Previews, where you are able to show work to Tutors and Peers in advance of Assignment Submission
- Script Surgeries, a series of developmental script seminars (both Factual and Non-Factual) run where you read and comment on each other's work, guided by tutors

Student Support

You will also be allocated a Personal Tutor. Your Personal Tutor will be proactively involved in the delivery of your programme and will have contact with you throughout your time at the University. They will support your learning and development, including tutorials and other support as outlined in the Personal Tutor Policy.

Library and Student Services (LiSS)

Library and Student Services (LiSS) offer a wide range of support, including; access to library learning resources, academic skills, careers and employability, financial help, counselling, health and wellbeing and support for disabled students and those with specific learning requirements. We know that you want to get the most out of your programme, make the best use of your time and find or continue in the career you always dreamed of. Access university support and facilities easily and quickly via our help is at hand search.

The Skills@Cumbria service can help support your academic skills and success throughout your programme. The service is delivered by a team of professional Learning Enhancement Advisers within LiSS. It includes a suite of online self-help resources accessible 24/7 via the University's website and Blackboard site. It also provides group and individual advice and guidance accessible through and alongside your course and by different means such as face to face, email or virtual.

Module leaders will collaborate with LiSS advisers to ensure that your reading lists are current and items are available via the library collections. In order to maximise access, availability and usefulness, ebooks and electronic journal titles will, in most cases, be prioritised. You can access a wide range of great electronic content using our Quest discovery system and you can find out more about key texts and journals for your subject by accessing the library's subject resources webpages. Where appropriate, module reading lists will be made available to you electronically using the university's online reading list system.

In addition to the range of guidance above, you have the opportunity to further develop your personal, academic and professional skills by taking part in a number of initiatives coordinated and delivered by LiSS Advisers:

Head Start

Head Start is a self-learning pre-entry module that is completed online and at your own pace. The module gives new undergraduate students an opportunity to prepare for their transition into university and to start to develop the academic skills that will help them become successful students.

All UG students are given the opportunity to register and complete Head Start prior to entry on their main programme of study. If you haven't been able to complete Head Start before starting your course, you can access the module via Blackboard by selecting the Skills@Cumbria tab and then the Head Start tab in the bottom right hand corner. Learning at university, academic writing and referencing are the key topics introduced in the module and previous students have told us how useful they have found the online resources and activities.

Head Start Plus

Head Start Plus is also an online skills development course, designed to support students who are about or who have just started study at level 5 or 6 (2nd and 3rd year undergraduate). This course is particularly recommended to students who may not have studied at HE level for some time or who are transitioning into the higher HE levels. The course provides a useful refresh on academic skills and practice and an insight into the expectations of tutors at those levels.

This course is free and available via the Open Education Platform powered by Blackboard. To access the course, follow the link to <https://openeducation.blackboard.com/cumbria> and set-up a free account with Open Education. Once logged on, select the course free of charge and work through it at your own pace.

PASS

PASS is a group-mentoring scheme running in a number of programmes at the university. It matches first year students with second and third year PASS Leaders who are able to offer a unique source of support in helping new students through the transition into university study. PASS Leaders undergo specific training that gives them an excellent opportunity to widen their skill-set, whilst also allowing for student-led study sessions that are mutually beneficial to PASS participants and PASS Leaders alike.

Contact your course tutor to find out if PASS is available on your programme. If you are interested in setting-up PASS on your course or would like to become a PASS Leader then contact pass@cumbria.ac.uk

Cumbria Mentor Scheme

This is the university's one-to-one voluntary mentoring scheme, traditionally matching individual first year students with second and third year Cumbria Student Mentors; however, any student may request a mentor if needed. This scheme provides unique pastoral support to new students during their transition into university life. It is also a great opportunity for more experienced students to broaden their own skill-set through the specific training all new mentors undergo, and through the practices they will utilise throughout the mentoring process. If you would like to be put in touch with a mentor or are interested in becoming a mentor yourself, contact melanie.bakey@cumbria.ac.uk

Career Ahead

Career Ahead is the University's Employability Award that is accessible to all of our students regardless of level or programme of study. Available free through the Careers Team in LiSS, the award gives students the opportunity to make their graduate CV stand out. Based on what employers look for in an ideal candidate, this award works with students to identify any gaps in their skill set and reflect on their experiences. It also offers the opportunity to participate in exclusive programmes and activities with real life employers. The University of Cumbria's employability award is split into three stages: Bronze, Silver and Gold, with a further Career Ahead + Platinum level. Students' engagement in extra curricula activities such as volunteering, project and charity work and peer mentoring are recognised within Career Ahead. To find out more or to register email careerahead@cumbria.ac.uk.
