Professor Julie Mennell DL
Vice Chancellor

WELCOME

I am delighted to welcome you to your graduation ceremony - an occasion that recognises your success and your impact on our region and beyond.

To all those who have helped and supported you, we extend our heartfelt appreciation to them for the role they have played in your success.

Remember that you - and what you do - make a vital contribution to our communities, economy, environment and wellbeing, and will continue to do so for many years to come. You shape, change, save and support lives as paramedics, police officers, nurses, teachers and social workers, to name just a few.

You now become a member of our Alumni Association—an international network of approximately 77,000 former students. It will keep you connected with Cumbria and with each other. Your successes will help inspire and motivate tomorrow's students and I offer my personal congratulations on your achievements.

My very best wishes to you all.

Julie

REFLECTION 24/25

Our university, in, for and beyond Cumbria, was established 18 years ago to transform lives and livelihoods through learning, applied research and practice for now and generations to come.

We have a broad geographic footprint, with campuses in Carlisle, Ambleside, Lancaster, Barrow (opening September 2025) and London.

We support 1,000 staff and over 15,000 students who study on campus, in the workplace and online - across Cumbria, throughout the UK and in more than 100 countries worldwide.

BAE, Sellafield, NHS trusts, police forces, schools, and the Forestry Commission are just some of the proud partners of our university. Working with us, they support us to inspire and equip our graduates, communities, economy and environment to thrive.

Our reputation for research excellence and innovation is growing, and will deliver real world benefits for local, national, and international industries.

Top university in the North West and 10th nationally for graduates in work and further study 15 months after graduation - Graduate Outcomes survey.

Top university in the UK for producing CEOs and Managing Directors - Novuna Business Cashflow.

Winner: Best Health Apprenticeship
Highly commended: Best University for Apprenticeships - Apprentice Guide Awards 2025

Widening Participation or Outreach Initiative of the Year - Times Higher Education Awards 2024.

One of the leading apprenticeship providers in the country with over 2,000 learners across 12 programmes.

Winner: Training & Professional Development Anthology Awards 2025

LOOKING AHEAD

It is an exciting time for our university and for Cumbria.

In Carlisle, we continue to work with our partners - Cumberland Council and Borderlands Inclusive Growth Deal leaders - to advance our plans for our new £78 million Citadels campus.

Our new Barrow campus opens in September, which symbolises the growth plans for the town that we and our partners - including Brilliant Barrow and Team Barrow - are driving forward. We will deliver university-level programmes initially in Mechanical Engineering, Computer Science and Adult Nursing - with more to follow. At a time of significant transformation, shaping the future of Barrow into a university town will not only provide considerable opportunities for the town but also the wider region.

In August we will welcome students to Cumbria's first graduate-entry medical school, the Pears Cumbria School of Medicine, a unique partnership between University of Cumbria and Imperial College London.

The four-year, graduate-entry programme features a bespoke curriculum aligned with local healthcare planning and infrastructure, ensuring students gain the skills needed to contribute meaningfully to the NHS and their communities.

The school is also building a foundation for research that addresses regional health challenges and improves patient outcomes. The school is the result of a shared vision to educate medical professionals to serve communities in regions with the greatest need.

In September, the University of Cumbria International College will open to students. It offers a number of foundation, international year one and pre-master's programmes from our Lancaster campus. International College students will then progress to the university's existing programmes across all campuses and will help bring a new generation of international students to Cumbria.

The opening of our Barrow site, medical school and International College, alongside the work being undertaken in Carlisle, are all key milestones in our university's strategy, purpose and mission alongside our growth and development during our 18-year journey to date.

As we look forward, we will continue to transform lives and livelihoods through learning, applied research and practice for now and for our future generations.

OUR SUCCESSES

Tom Jenkins, Intelligence Analyst

After graduating with a degree in Security, Intelligence and Investigative Practice, Tom now utilises the skills and experience he gained from his studies in his role as an Intelligence Analyst.

“With thanks to the course, staff and fellow students, I was fortunate to undertake various relevant work experience periods and internships throughout the three years; from security risk management in hostile environments, to immersing myself in the intelligence and security operations of a major bank, situated in the heart of Mexico.

“I currently work as an Intelligence Analyst, embracing each opportunity and challenge I’m confronted with, transferring course components into the real world. I would say the most important, truly fundamental driver is passion. Passion and enthusiasm for the course you’re going to study. It’s this that will drive results and it’s this that will maintain focus and determination during the uphill battles.

“While the university was a great facilitator of connecting with industry experts, it’s crucial you grasp every opportunity to broaden your understanding of the topic and industry relations. If it weren’t for the theory and practice combined, I firmly believe the chances of entering this industry would be slim. So, all in all, enjoy what you do, maintain focus, craft opportunities and capitalise on them...you won’t regret it!”

Opal Goldring, aspiring Outdoor Instructor

A recent graduate of our Outdoor Leadership course, Opal, who is from South Africa, is exploring all the incredible opportunities available to her in the UK.

“I’ve had a lot of exciting and memorable times during my time at the University of Cumbria, with one of my favourites being a survival experience on the Shetland Isles, but I also enjoyed ice-climbing on the side of Red Screes.

“The course has given me all the tools to risk assess, plan sessions and articulate my coaching philosophy. I’ve had access to National Governing Bodies (NGBs) and days out to build an experience that I could not have afforded otherwise.

“The university also hosted a careers fair, particularly for the outdoors students to introduce us to representatives of potential future work opportunities. The university really helps to introduce you to connections and grow your network.

“After graduation, I am taking a few days to relax and let it all sink in. Then I’m going to finish my NGB and get going working in the outdoors! Who knows where I’ll be, the Lake District or somewhere else in the UK!”

Sophie Steadman, Graduate Artist in Residence

After graduating in 2023 with a degree in Fine Art, Sophie has co-founded SoMo, an artist collaborative project, with a fellow Fine Art graduate. SoMo aims to provide and promote opportunities for Cumbrian artists including current and former students at the university's Institute of Education, Arts and Society. More recently, Sophie has just returned from the trip of a lifetime after being part of an artistic collective to exhibit at the world's biggest art festival – The 60th Venice Biennale.

“One of the reasons why I chose The University of Cumbria was because as soon as I visited on an open day, I instantly felt a positive, community atmosphere. Being surrounded by so many creative people felt so inspiring and really got me excited about the potential of studying here.”

“The Fine Art course has provided me with the skills and tools necessary to critique my art and the confidence to showcase my work for others to see and openly discuss. I learned the importance of receiving feedback and engaging in discussions about my work as it always presents opportunities for development.”

“In September 2023, a friend and I started a joint Graduate Artist in Residence program to develop our arts-based collective, SoMo. Our goal is to use our time as artists in residence to provide art opportunities to people in Carlisle and the surrounding areas, with a particular focus on students and graduates.”

Lindsay Jayes, BSc (Hons) Midwifery graduand and student council member for NHS England

Lindsay Jayes is graduating from the University of Cumbria with a BSc (Hons) Midwifery degree. Lindsay's journey to becoming a midwife has been shaped by the amazing friendships she's made, her tremendous personal growth, and the enriching opportunities and support she's received along the way.

“As I come to the end of my degree, I look back on some of the amazing things that I have been privileged to experience. This includes the amazing sisterhood that has developed within the cohort, realising I can achieve things that I didn’t think possible, and the fantastic support from tutors, navigating me through academia with kindness and understanding.

“My favourite experience from my degree, apart from the privilege of caring for the many women on placement, has to be the opportunities that I have been given – such as becoming a student council member for NHS England and getting involved in numerous projects, in addition to becoming a trainer for Make Every Contact Count for mental health.

“I have been extremely lucky to have been offered a job within the trust at which I trained, which I am both nervous and very excited about. I will always hold this chosen path close to my heart and I am forever thankful to everyone I met along the way.”

OUR RESEARCH, KNOWLEDGE EXCHANGE AND TEACHING

Our teaching is led by practice, industry and research-informed academics. We offer flexible learning options, work experience opportunities and a safe space for critical challenge and experimentation. And through our academic institutes, centres and networks, research and knowledge exchange are an integral part of what we do at the University of Cumbria.

Building upon more than 150 years of higher education and established in 2007, our university's reputation for research excellence and innovation is growing and will be a catalyst for prosperity locally, nationally and internationally. Research themes are focused on key areas including health and wellbeing, environment and geography, education and outdoor learning, creative practice, business, leadership and visitor economy and more.

Supporting our region, we are working closely with partners on major research innovations and projects that are recognised nationally. For instance, the £4.8m Cumberland Health Determinants Research Collaboration (HDRC) that has been live since January 2024 with University of Cumbria as the primary academic partner working closely with Cumberland Council.

Our Centre for National Parks & Protected Areas (CNPPA) was a founding signatory to the Protected and Conserved Areas Joint Statement (PCAJS) at COP26 in Glasgow. This is a global statement signed by several international national park organisations, government departments and the International Union for Conservation of Nature's World Commission for Protected Areas (IUCN-WCPA).

In 2025, the Pears Cumbria School of Medicine Research Hub was launched. Over the next three years, the hub will fund collaborative projects between the University and NHS partners, in addition to supporting Nursing, Midwifery, and Allied Health Professionals to develop their research skills. The Hub is funded by an award from the Imperial NIHR BioMedical Research Centre.

Our knowledge exchange programmes utilise our academic expertise for real world benefit and as we look to the future, we are committed to growing the quality of research conducted by our staff by continuing to actively participate in the 'Research Excellence Framework' (REF).

This is the system for assessing the quality of research in UK higher education institutions and our research in allied health, social sciences, geography and environment, business, art and design, and education. As part of the latest REF2021, 42% of our research has been independently rated as 'internationally excellent' or 'world leading', including 7.7% rated in the highest category of 4*. 54% of our overall research impact has also been independently rated as 'internationally excellent' or 'world leading'.

Another nationally recognised measure of quality is the proportion of academic staff who have gained Fellowship of the Higher Education Academy(HEA), now known as Advance HE. 73% of our staff are recognised by Advance HE as HEA Fellows, while 78 staff hold Senior HEA Fellowships. We also have two Principal HEA Fellows.

AND MOST IMPORTANTLY, OUR STUDENTS

Our students continue to be at the heart of everything we do, and we work hard to ensure their experience is the best it can be. Over 4,000 students achieve their academic awards each year, a figure that delivers immense satisfaction to us all, reflecting as it does additional skilled professionals entering the workplace or continuing to higher degrees. Many choose to remain in Cumbria, north Lancashire and east London, contributing to the economic success and regeneration of our communities, applying the knowledge they have acquired to their new roles in the public and private sectors.

A great deal of our success arises from the commitment and dedication of the staff who work so hard to ensure that our students are at the very heart of our business. We strive to inspire all those who study at the University of Cumbria to make their mark professionally and become active and engaged citizens within their communities.

We remain fiercely proud of our long history through our legacy institutions of preparing students for work and life.

We are continuing their endeavours and helping our students to achieve personal and professional potential wherever and however they choose to do so, be it as a school/college leaver or a mature student taking a step into higher education; an employee furthering their career through continuing professional development or postgraduate opportunities; or those who desire flexible learning opportunities online or part-time.

Through our passion, ambition and collaborations, it remains our goal to make sure our students and our communities have the confidence and capability to seize opportunities and realise their potential.

The university can look forward with much optimism to advancing with staff, students, partners and key stakeholders, continuing to deliver these valuable objectives and outcomes, and to witnessing the achievement of even greater reputational success, reinforcing our position as a mature, established institution.

GRADUATION

DEGREE & AWARD CEREMONY
CARLISLE CATHEDRAL

The University of Cumbria would like to dedicate this programme to the memory of James Armstrong, Head Verger of Carlisle Cathedral, who sadly passed away in May of this year.

We thank James immensely for his unwavering dedication to our graduation ceremonies since they were established in 2007. His commitment to ensuring a warm welcome to all our students, staff and guests over the years will be forever remembered.

CARLISLE CATHEDRAL

Welcome to Carlisle Cathedral.

Carlisle Cathedral is a magnificent setting for one of the proudest days of your life, and you are most welcome as we celebrate with you today.

There has probably been a church on this site since the seventh century, when St Cuthbert is known to have visited Carlisle in AD 685. The oldest parts of the present building are the Norman south transept (inside the main door) and the surviving parts of the nave. They were part of the Augustinian Priory founded by Henry I in 1122. The Priory Church was made a cathedral in 1133, when the Diocese of Carlisle was created.

A pattern of daily prayer, music and hospitality continues to be the heartbeat of the Cathedral, and our bells chime for all across our city and county. We may not be the biggest of the English cathedrals, but dignity and intimacy combine here to delight those who enter our doors. The magnificent 58' high east window has some of the finest fourteenth-century 'Decorated' stone tracery in the country. And the spectacular, star-spangled ceiling – the creation of Owen Jones in the 1850s – lifts both eye and spirit. It's no wonder that visitors pause to marvel: here is an intimation of eternity, of times long past, and of all that is to come in God's loving purposes.

You are all very welcome.

Jonathan Brewster, Dean of Carlisle

THE UNIVERSITY MOTTO

ASPIREMUS EFFICIAMUS

Let us aspire and achieve

The University Motto.

Following a survey of staff opinion as to the desired sentiments which should comprise a motto for the university in July 2007, the university's Board of Directors determined at its inaugural meeting on 1 August 2007 what the motto of the University of Cumbria should be.

THE MACE

The symbol of authority of the university, the Mace is an elegant, modern and thought-provoking design, which has nevertheless been crafted using traditional silversmithing techniques. As a design object, the Mace itself incorporates symbolism reflective of the university at the point of its inauguration.

The foot of the Mace depicts the seal of the university, a white Parnassus flower encircling a red rose, cut from silver sheet and carved as a cut card pictorial. The marriage of the two county floral symbols is a fitting reflection of the origins and location of the university.

This theme is developed through the three twisting spirals which comprise the central shaft of the Mace, and which symbolise the strength of a single unified whole borne out of three different strands.

The spiral has a pair of gilded collars with stars carved into them. The stars have been used firstly to represent aspiration, which is part of the motto of the university, and secondly to constitute a direct link with Carlisle Cathedral, where many academic ceremonies have been held, and where the inauguration ceremony took place.

As a lasting memorial of the inauguration, the concave part of the foot bears an inscription carved very deeply into the silver: The University of Cumbria Inauguration 2007.

The three spirals of the Mace culminate in a fluid and organic shape that is capable of multiple interpretation, being at once both bud-like, reflecting the birth of the new university, and flame-like, representing a torch of knowledge.

The shape is deliberately ambiguous, and others may see in it spiritual or creative import. The spirals are finished on the inside with a brightly hammered finish, and gilded to refract subtle glimmers of light, like the shimmering of water or the flashing of flames, giving life to the Mace and promise for the future.

THE GRANT OF ARMS

Designed by Henry Paston-Beding-
feld, Esq, York Herald,
College of Arms

Following approval by Garter King of Arms, this Grant of Arms has been bestowed on the University of Cumbria by the English King of Arms.

The Coat of Arms includes a number of heraldic features which reflect the status, character and background of the university. The importance of Cumbria is significant in the design. The supporters, a ram and a stag, are reflective of the animals of Cumbria; the white Parnassus flower is the county flower of Cumbria; the blue wavy band in the crest symbolises the sea on the coast of Cumbria; and the lakes represent the Lake District. The University's historic links with Lancashire are reflected in the two red roses around the necks of the supporters.

The academic nature of the organisation is signified by the torch of knowledge held aloft in the crest. The objectives of the university, in relation to the importance it attaches both to its Christian values and to its creative traditions, are reflected in the inclusion on the shield of the jewelled bishops' mitres and the crossed artists' brushes.

Surrounding the shield and around the necks of the supporters are twisted ropes, which depict the entwining together of the different strands which have come together to form a single university. The beech leaves depicted alongside the torch of knowledge are heraldically reminiscent of the university logo. The stars on the blue strip are, at the same time, symbols of the aspiration to which university members are exhorted in the motto, but also act as a reminder of the university's link with Carlisle Cathedral, where stars feature prominently on the bright blue ceiling.

CAREER SUPPORT

As you look to the future, the Careers & Employability Team will be here to help and support you in planning your career, preparing for interviews, finding job opportunities, writing your CV, applying for jobs, applying for postgraduate study, and much more!

As a graduate, you'll get access to personalised career support for up to three years after graduating. You will be able to access My Career Enriched, our career hub.

This will enable you to:

- Access career information resources and video guides.
- Access the jobs board and search for graduate jobs, paid internships, graduate schemes, and work experience.
- Book one-to-one advice and guidance appointments.
- Book one-to-one self-employment appointments.
- Book a practice interview and perfect your interview skills.
- Search for and book onto careers fairs, employability webinars and events.
- Send in your CV or application for review and get tailored feedback.
- Develop your employability skills with our self-learning pathways.

As a recent graduate, you can also access LinkedIn Learning for one year after your course end date. This online library contains over 10,000 digital courses.

(*access to careers services will vary depending upon the nature of your course.)

Here's Biomedical Sciences graduate Lisa Irving's experience of using the Careers & Employability Service

Lisa was worried that her lack of laboratory experience would reduce her chances of securing a job in Biomedical Science, so she booked a careers guidance appointment. As a mature student who had worked in completely different job roles prior to coming to university, she was particularly concerned that potential employers wouldn't take her new career goals seriously. With one-to-one help from a Careers Adviser, Lisa started thinking about herself as a scientist — she discarded her old CV and discovered how to create a new one that better showcased the many skills and knowledge gained from her science degree. With renewed confidence, a first-class degree and a fit-for-purpose CV, Lisa started approaching employers, finally securing work in a pharmacy. Whilst this wasn't her dream job, the experience proved invaluable, and Lisa started applying for laboratory roles.

After a couple of unsuccessful interviews, and a third one looming, she decided to book a practice interview with the Careers Service. Here is what she had to say afterwards:

“I just wanted to say thank you again for your help that day and at the last minute. And it was worth it because I got the job. I’m so glad we had that discussion because I was able to answer each question thanks to you. I’m really grateful for your help and advice.”

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Keeping you connected to Cumbria and each other.

Congratulations class of 2025!

Welcome to the University of Cumbria alumni community. You now belong to a network of over 77,000 graduates worldwide and your relationship with us will continue for life.

Your graduation certificate is not a receipt; it is a membership card. There are no joining fees and no need to sign up; we will be in touch with you shortly. As an alumnus, you will receive exclusive benefits and services, the latest news and event invites, and opportunities to stay connected to Cumbria and each other.

We would love to stay in touch with you. Keep us up to date with your career news, let us know when you move house or change email address, and reach out if you have anything exciting to share or just want to say hi! We are your first point of contact for any reason you may wish to get in touch with the university going forward, and we will always be happy to hear from you. We wish you all the best for the future!

Join the Cumbria Network

Exclusive to all University of Cumbria alumni, the Cumbria Network is a mentoring and networking platform and a one-stop place to keep you connected to Cumbria and each other. Search the alumni directory, network with new people, seek a mentor, find your dream job, keep up to date with events and opportunities, find your friends and reminisce, and read exclusive content, news and blog posts. We are excited to see you there.

Graduate Outcomes Survey

Graduate Outcomes is the biggest annual social survey in the UK, giving you the opportunity to be part of the bigger picture and influence the future of education.

You will be contacted by the Higher Education Statistics Agency (HESA), 15 months from your completion date, and you will receive your link to join 74,000 other graduates completing the survey. Everything you need to know about the survey is here:

www.graduateoutcomes.ac.uk

A PLACE TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Study Medicine at a collaborative and inclusive medical school embedded in the communities of Cumbria, training clinicians who are innovative, adaptable and focussed on the delivery of high-quality person-centred care.

The Pears Cumbria School of Medicine is a new graduate entry Medical School, opening in August 2025. Our bespoke course blends expertise from the highly rated MBBS programme at Imperial College London with University of Cumbria's longstanding reputation in training allied healthcare professionals, and is focused on local healthcare needs.

Our students will benefit from early exposure to clinical practice alongside campus-based medical sciences teaching, incorporating clinical skills training and multi professional learning. You will also complete a community-based prevention and healthcare delivery project.

Our personalised professional development tutoring programme will support your progress and career development, and you will be given access to resources to structure your learning and inspire innovation.

You will need to be a home fee-paying student with at least an upper second-class science or allied healthcare degree to be considered and you will need to complete the GAMSAT or UCAT admissions test. Successful students will graduate with an MBBS from Imperial College London.

Improving health outcomes for the people of Cumbria.

Graduate with the skills and knowledge to enter a diverse range of careers including clinical medical practice, clinical and biomedical research, the pharmaceutical industry, scientific journalism, and healthcare management.

ALUMNI DISCOUNT

If you are interested in continuing your studies past graduation, then we're here to help you get started. We offer a discount on postgraduate fees to eligible graduates of the University of Cumbria.

For your first postgraduate award, you could receive as much as a 20% discount on taught courses, or 10% on research degrees. This is for awards of up to a maximum of 180 credits and does not apply to PGCE students.

International students will be entitled to the same absolute discount (not percentage) as home and EU students.

To receive this discount, you must have previously studied at the University of Cumbria as an undergraduate in the last 5 years and achieved an award of 120 credits minimum, as well as meet the relevant entry requirements for postgraduate study. Accreditation of Prior Learning charges are not included in this discount.

We want to reward our students who choose to continue with academia, so for more information on this discount or anything about postgraduate study, please contact the Enquiry Centre.
